

Associates in Gastroenterology: Endoscopic Ultrasound (EUS)

GENERAL INFORMATION

EUS is an outpatient procedure that uses a thin, flexible, lighted tube with a small ultrasound probe attached to the end (echoendoscope). The procedure usually takes 15-45 minutes. Endoscopic Ultrasound is a safe procedure but rare complications can occur, including bleeding, perforation of internal organs, or reactions to the sedation medicine.

During the procedure, you will be lying on your left side and you will be sedated with intravenous medicine. The doctor passes the endoscope through the mouth, esophagus and stomach and into the duodenum. The tube will not affect the patient's ability to breathe normally. Once in place, the ultrasound probe at the end of the endoscope uses sound waves to create images of the pancreas and surrounding structures.

After the procedure, you may feel abdominal pressure or bloating because of air that was introduced during the procedure. This will disappear relatively quickly with belching and passage of gas. Your throat may be slightly sore, but you should be able to eat a regular diet.

ENDOSCOPIC ULTRASOUND PREPARATION

- If you take Aspirin, Plavix (clopidogrel), Coumadin (warfarin), or Pradaxa (dabigatran etexilate mesylate), please discuss with your doctor.
